INTRODUCTION

The Pennsylvania State Data Center (PSDC), under agreement with the Pennsylvania Health Data Center, has prepared estimates of the population of Pennsylvania counties for July 1, 1987. The county estimates are detailed by age (individual years up to age 19 and 5 year cohorts to age 85+), and by sex. Race estimates (white and non-white) were also produced for the State and for counties that had a non-white population of greater than 20,000 as of the 1980 Census.

Estimates of total population were developed jointly by the PSDC and the U.S. Bureau of the Census. These estimates were released through the Federal State Cooperative Program for Population Estimates (FSCPPE). A detailed description of these estimates is presented in the METHODOLOGY section. Detailed estimates by age, sex and race were generated using a cohort component method. FSCPPE total population estimates were used as controls for the detailed estimates.

This report is organized into three sections. The first section presents the population estimates methodology. The second section presents historical total population figures for the state and counties as well as selected population graphics. The third section presents detailed state and county estimates by age, sex, and race (where applicable).

METHODOLOGY

COUNTY ESTIMATES OF TOTAL POPULATION

Estimates of the total population of counties for July 1, 1985 and 1986 were generated through the Federal State Cooperative Program for Population Estimates (FSCPPE). Estimates were computed as an average of the following two methods, adjusted to agree with the July 1, 1987 State estimates.

1. The Regression (ratio-correlation) Method.

In the Regression Method, a multiple regression equation is used to estimate change in the distribution of population among counties. The series of data used in the regression method for Pennsylvania are: school enrollment in grades 1 through 8 plus elementary special and ungraded enrollment (X1), Federal income tax returns (X2), Medicare enrollee's (X3), and a two year average of resident births (X4). The regression equation used for Pennsylvania is given by:

$$\hat{Y} = 0.160 + 0.440(X1) + 0.344(X2) + 0.219(X3) + 0.155(X4)$$

2. The Administrative Records Method.

This is a component method which uses both individual Federal Income Tax returns to measure the intercounty migration of the nongroup quarters population and reported birth and death statistics to estimate natural change. The tax returns are matched by Social Security number in the base year and the estimate year to determine the number of persons whose county of residence changed during the period. A net migration rate based on exemptions claimed by the matched areas is then applied to the population. This estimate is made specific to the nongroup quarters population under 65 by excluding from the migration computations any data relating to persons 65 and over as well as persons residing in group quarters. These estimates are then combined with the independent estimates of population 65 and over and other components of population change -- births, deaths, immigration, and the net movement between the military and civilian population.

METHODOLOGY

COUNTY ESTIMATES BY AGE, SEX AND RACE

General Description

In its simplest form the estimate methodology can be described as surviving the 1985 population forward to the estimate date and then accounting for the effects of intercounty migration over the estimate period. The estimates are detailed by age, sex and race (only for the State and those counties having a 1980 non-white population of 20,000 persons or more). The total population for each county is controlled to the official county population estimate released through the Census Bureau.

More specifically, surviving the population involves three steps:

1. Age the base population to the estimate date.

2. Add in births that occurred from the base date to the estimate date.

3. Subtract out deaths that occurred from the base date to the estimate date.

This process leaves out all influences of that part of the population that is considered to have migrated (moved in or out of a particular county).

The number of people migrating is determined by the difference between the survived population and the total population provided through the FSCPPE. The results of the question asked on the 1980 Census about place of residence in 1975 was used to determine the characteristics of those persons migrating.

The merging of both the survived and the migrating population results in a detailed breakdown of county population by age, sex and race.

Detailed Description

The base population used was the final 1985 detailed (age, sex and race) county-level file generated by the Pennsylvania State Data Center in 1987. From this file individual year cohorts for males and females to age 19 and five year cohorts to age 85 and over were extracted.

Three steps were used to survive the population:

1. Age the population to the estimate date (July 1, 1987) by moving a proportion of one cohort to the next cohort over the estimate period. This was done by five year cohorts. For example, one fifth of the 0-4 cohort become (move into) the 5-9 cohort 1 year later.

2. At the end of the estimate period all births by age, sex and race (where applicable) occurring during the period move into the 0-4 cohort. The birth statistics are obtained from the Pennsylvania Department of Health, Health Data Center.

3. Deaths by age, sex and race (where applicable) are subtracted from the results of 1 and 2 above. The death statistics are obtained from the Pennsylvania Department of Health, Health Data Center.

The result of steps 1, 2 and 3 above is the survived population.

The net migration is then calculated by subtracting the total survived population from the total population derived through the FSCPPE. If the sign (+ or -) of the difference is positive we assume a positive net migration and if the sign of the difference is negative we assume a minus net migration over the estimate period. Characteristic (age, sex, race) disaggregation of this net migration is achieved by applying the same age, sex and race detail of migrants that was observed in the period 1975-1980. Specifically, the migration rates used in generating estimates were derived from a special tabulation of the question in the 1980 U.S. Census concerning place of residence on April 1, 1975. Net migration rates were calculated from this special census information as the ratio of net migrants to expected population for each population subgroup (age, sex and race) in all 67 counties and the state. Although county net migration rates are trended, the 1975- 80 age distribution of net migration rates derived from the special tabulations is held fixed throughout the estimate period.

To enhance the stability of age-sex specific rates in smaller sized counties (less than 100,000 population), total age specific rates as opposed to age-sex specific rates were used.

The migration rates for the 0-4 cohorts (those born between 1975 and 1980) were calculated using a survival rate methodology. The number of births in each county was obtained for each year by sex and race from 1975 to 1980. Since we were calculating migration rates for the five year period from April 1, 1975 to April 1, 1980, all births in 1976, 1977, 1978, and 1979 were added to 75 percent of the births in 1975 and 25 percent of the births in 1980. This total number of births was then multiplied by the respective sex/race survival rates that was derived from the Pennsylvania life table (Lichter et al., 1985) to produce a "survived" population of these cohorts. The difference between the "survived" population and actual count in 1980 was taken to be the number of net migrants.

The migration rates described above were taken from the Pennsylvania Population Projection and Estimate System. For a more detailed description of the migration methodology see the PSDC report Fertility, Mortality and Migration: Working Papers.

The disaggregated migration characteristics are then added to the survived population to provide the base estimate of population by age (5 year cohorts, sex and race) for a particular period.

These base estimates are then enhanced by the addition of the following procedures:

1. The over 65 age cohorts are adjusted to agree with the proportion of the over 65 age cohorts from the 1980 Census to the number of enrollee's in the Medicare program. Medicare enrollee's are available annually by sex and race from the Social Security Administration.

2. Sex ratios (males as a percent of total for a particular agerace cell) were developed based on the 1970 and 1980 Censuses. Each sex ratio threshold for any estimate period was used to indicate any potential problems with the sex ratio. This was particularly useful in the high proportion group quarters counties (Centre, Huntington and Union).

3. Cohort ratios (total age cohort as a percent of total county population) were developed from the 1970 and 1980 censuses. These cohort ratios were used in a similar manner as the sex ratios.

Once the 5 year cohorts are generated, individual year cohorts (0 - 19) are calculated by the following steps:

1. Using individual year cohorts to survive and base population to the estimate date by: a.) aging the individual year cohorts to the estimate date; b.) adding in births to the estimate date; c.) subtracting deaths to the estimate date.

2. Using these survived individual year cohorts, we control (rake) them to the estimated 5 year cohorts described earlier. It is in this way that we are able to maintain the individual year variation in the single year population estimates of the 0-19 group.

AFFILIATE DATA CENTERS

The purpose of the Affiliate Data Center (ADC) network is to more directly meet the needs of local users. The ADCs maintain a publicly accessible collection of census materials and reports. They have personnel trained to assist data users in locating data items and are available for consultation. The ADCs provide a wide range of products and services on a cost recovery basis. The ADC will make referrals to the PSDC or another affiliate if it cannot handle your request.
